

sexual assault & child abuse recovery

Think First To Stay Safe On Line!

Play the “What if?” game with your child about online personal safety. Whether it’s in real life or online, it’s important to set limits about the time, place, and people with whom your child can interact. Talk to your child about appropriate online content and don’t be afraid to block websites, pages, or content. Here are some conversation starters for you to talk to your children about online safety. What “What if” questions can you and your children come up with?

